Fileserver and Home-Directory

All University employees and students have the possibility to save data in a personal online database (home directory) that is accessible through a shared fileserver. As a student, you can access your personal homedirectory from any computer with a VPN connection through the Freiburg University network. As a University employee, you can access this directory from your office workstation, or access it remotely through a VPN connection. The directory is accessible through Windows or Linux without having to install any additional software.
